The Converge Media Video Journalist Intern

About Northwest Folklife:
Since 1972, Northwest Folklife (NWFL) has been creating opportunities for all to celebrate, share, and participate in the evolving cultural traditions of the Pacific Northwest. As a cultural arts & heritage organization, we are extremely committed to equity, diversity and inclusion. Therefore, we seek candidates who offer relevant skills and knowledge with diverse cultural perspectives, grounded in the desire to serve community. This is internship is hosted by Converge Media in collaboration with NWFL.

About Converge Media:
Join Converge Media as a paid intern and gain practical education, professional experience and have a great time working alongside journalists, producers, and content creators. You will work on stories, be assigned a mentor, and learn about the ever-changing world of journalism and media. Our company: Converge Media is a leading producer of culturally relevant content in Seattle and across the Pacific Northwest. We create videos, editorial and creative writing, podcasts, and local news coverage curated specifically for an urban audience. We believe that the Black community deserves authentic representation, a focus on our community’s issues, and equitable access to elected officials, leadership, and governmental information. Founded by Seattle Central District natives Omari Salisbury and Erik Kalligraphy, from day one, Converge Media has been a platform to amplify not only our own original content but also the content of independent African-American creators throughout the region, providing them with access to our engaged audience that is interested in their voices and perspectives.
